

SETTLED AT LAST.
The Newspaper War in Fort Worth Is Ended, and Harmony Once More Prevails.

The history of the suspension of the Fort Worth GAZETTE and its subsequent resumption is familiar to all readers, and it would be an act of supererogation to again publish the connected with it in these columns. Immediately after the suspension of the GAZETTE the business men of the city, laboring under a misapprehension of the cause, and thinking that the GAZETTE would resume publication formed a committee and launched again upon the work of journalism the Daily Democrat.
It was an undertaking that required much money, and evinced the fact that the people of this city will be deterred from making that will redound to the welfare and prosperity of Fort Worth. In a few days after the Democrat appeared the GAZETTE resumed publication, and the war was commenced. The suspension of rival towns referred to the so-called discussions here of a nature of exultation, and did all that could be done to stir up strife between the two papers, and thus destroy that character of action that has in all past years characterized the business and journalism of Fort Worth. The management of the two papers—the GAZETTE and the Democrat—soon realized that no two morning papers could exist in Fort Worth; that while the GAZETTE would be of no benefit to either party, being the case, overtures were made toward management to the other, but while it seemed that no solution of the problem could be arrived at. Propositions after proposition was made, first from one side and then by the other. Mr.
George B. Loving on behalf of THE GAZETTE, and J. W. Spencer on behalf of the Democrat, met at one time to discuss the matter, but his proposition was rejected on account of the price placed on THE GAZETTE.
There was no desire to abandon the Democrat enterprise. Day after day passed by until yesterday, when it was determined by both the management of THE GAZETTE and the Democrat that the matter should be brought to a crisis, and an amicable settlement of differences arranged. A meeting was held on behalf of Mr. George B. Loving and Mr.
George B. Loving on the part of THE GAZETTE, and Major K. M. Van Zandt, Captain B. B. Paddock and Mr. J. W. Swaney, on behalf of the Democrat. The meeting was held in the office of the Fort Worth National, when the situation was freely discussed by all parties interested. After a lengthy meeting a solution of the problem was arrived at by Mr. Loving agreeing to dispose of the Daily and Weekly GAZETTE, together with all its rights and franchises, except the job of printing and THE GAZETTE building, which remain the property of Mr. Loving, for the sum of $20,000 cash. This proposition was accepted, and the closing of this transaction ends the threatened newspaper war and restores harmony in the city.

The new management will take charge of THE GAZETTE office to-day, and the paper will appear to-morrow morning as THE DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE. The change in the name is the result of a compromise.
Both sides were wedded to the name of the paper and would not consent to it being completely merged into the other; therefore the hyphenated title was known upon, and by it the paper will be known in the future. The following are names of the gentlemen who are the incorporators of the new company: B. B. Paddock, J.
F. Smith, W. L. Malone, W. A. Calloway, R. G. Senter, George B. Hendricks, S. M.
Ly, T. A. Tidball, J. W. Spencer, Sydney Martin, S. P. Tucker, W. S. Pendleton, W. G. Turner, Joseph H. Brown, K.
M. Van Zandt, W. A. Huffman, James W.
Swaney and C. J. Swaney. All readers of the above names represent a large amount of capital, and so long as the gentlemen have guaranteed staunch support to the enterprise, there can be no doubt as to the future fortunes of the paper.

THE FIRST DIRT Was Broken on the Fort Worth & New Orleans Railroad Yesterday.

Yesterday was an eventful day in Fort Worth, and the good results from the work begun will place this city at the head of any other in the state. Day-before yesterday, as was stated by THE GAZETTE, the organized gangs of workmen moved to the front along the arranged route of the Fort Worth & New Orleans railroad, and yesterday morning the first dirt was broken on the road that will in a short time release Fort Worth from a monopoly that has in the past discriminated against her time interests in favor of rival cities.

Work was begun at three points simultaneously and will be pushed ahead until the road is completed to a southern connection. The points where the work was commenced were first at Sycamore creek, three and a half miles from the city; second at Village creek, eight miles from the city; and third at Walnut creek, eighteen miles from the city and near Mansfield.
For a long time the people have refrained from shooting, but now, as they are out in the woods of doubt, they can indulge in one long loud "hurrah," and exult over the consummation of a gigantic enterprise that in days to come will be worth millions to this city. And the engineering corps have moved on from Midland.

A Close Call.
Yesterday afternoon Tom Aston made a narrow escape from serious injury in the shooting gallery in Davis' saloon, on the public square. It happened as a GAZETTE reporter learned in this wise: Billy Neely, the proprietor of the shooting gallery, was practicing shooting, and after he had fired several shots Aston stepped to the target and wiped away the marks made by bullets. After having done this he stepped to one side, and Neely fired again, hitting the bull. The bullet was flattened against the metal, and a fragment of it glanced striking

Aston in the forehead near the eye, burying itself in the skull. Tom thought for a time that it was all day with him, but he subsequently picked the fragment of lead from its lodging place and suffered no injury to amount to anything.

Charley Gay.
In our report of the prohibition defeat in yesterday's paper credit was given to Charley Galloway for good work in the Fourth ward, when it should have been given to Charley Gay, who was an untiring worker, and never let up in his efforts from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening. THE GAZETTE makes the correction with pleasure.

A Pleasant Party.
On Wednesday evening at their beautiful mansion on Lamar street, Capt. and Mrs. Edgington gave a farewell party to their son, Willie, who intends leaving in a few days for the State university at Austin. The inclement weather prevented a great many from being present, but those who braved the threatening storm, declared it to be a most delectable occasion. Refreshments, which could only be prepared by an accomplished mistress of the household, formed a large part of the enjoyment and the affair will ever be a green spot in the memory of all.
Mrs. Kathleen Randall rendered the music for dancing.

Hotel Arrivals.
Mansion hotel: S. E. Moss, Morgan; H.
M. Horton, Toyah; Miss M. Grier, Marshall; J. B. Sierin, Millsap; A. L. Connell, Dallas; Geo. Clark, St. Louis; J. A. Kemp, Wichita Falls; J. C. Chessnut and lady, Henrietta; James M. Thompson, Napa
City, Cal.; Joe Boaz, J. J. Roby, G. F. Mc-Cleskey, H. Reeves, R. L. Kitters, Texas;
J. B. Nebant, P. G. Nebant, Terrell; J. W.
Barnhill, Longview; L. H. Fitzhugh, Dallas; Joe Fowler, Azale, Tex.; W. C. McFarland, Cleburne; Wm. C. Groat, Harrold; W. G.
Eastle, Henrietta; B. J. Cooney, Cleburne; M. Barnes and lady, Alvarado; J. W.
Frost, Meridian; S. M. Speak, St. Beck, Dallas; J. D. Preston, Meridian; J. R. Black, Franklin, Ky.; A. J. Brown, W. T. Brown, Alvarado; M. J. Seymour, New Orleans; R.
M. Johnson, Harrold; James Eads, Roanoke; W. A. Stewart and family, Cleburne; J. W. Brooks, Atwood, Tenn.; C. W. Butt, Dallas; J. I. Kendrick, Jonesboro; Mr.
McCarthy, Deatur, C. W. Smith, F. P.
Whitney, Galveston; J. N. Johnston, Ala.

Metropolitan hotel: Mrs. Overmeyer, Dallas; M. J. Eidey, Texas; W. Southesbury, Texas; E. T. Williams, Temple; S.
K. Williamson, Baltimore; S. J. Wheat, Reynolds; K. R. Fudge, Lampasas; J. H.
Robbins, Kansas City; F. Crawford and wife, Abilene; W. H. Jones, Leavenworth, Kan.; J. M. Grisham, Hill county; H. R.
Cromer and family, Atlanta; V. M. Johnson, Aurora; S. L. Williams, Bell county; D. A. Golden, Strawn; W. D. Holbe, R.
Lane, Temple; S. M. Buchfield, Gatesville; A. Brangoff, J. Brangoff, S. Brangoff, Des Moines; J. W. Clark, St. Louis, Mo.; Thos.
J. Belcher, Sherman; J. N. Jones, Mansfield; I. A. Montgomery, W. C. Wilken, Iowa; Jao C. Mouth, Indiana; Geo. W.
Rowland, T. L. Rowland, Texas.

Ginocchio's hotel: J. R. Horter, St.
Louis; Mrs. J. F. McDonald, Miss May Groselocke, Breckenridge; Mrs. B. Fanner, Wichita Falls; A. C. Petri, Chicago; L. H. Fitzhugh, Dallas; A. M. Grambling, Tyler; W. H. Hayes, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dobson, Corpus Christi; W. C.
Kelly, Temple; W. S. Herndon, Tyler; A.
J. Hood, Weatherford; H. A. Lewis, Har-rold; W. C. Everheart, Denison; J. W. Howard, city; W. J. Cherry, J. T. Brown, Marshall, Tex.; J. H. Brown, Weatherford, Tex.; J. F. Garnett, Texas; Leon Hart, Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. M. A.
Waddell, Houston; G. S. White, Mobeile; Edward McPherson, Rhode Island; E. F.
Floyd and lady, Miss McKay, Andrew Tucker, John Deffen, Lynchburg, Va.; Edward Hill, Charlottesville, Va.

Hotel Pickwick: Wm. Hazelton, St.
Louis; L. N. Atchison, city; S. S. Dentherage, Louisville; H. W. Moon, city; E. W.
Palmer, St. Louis; G. T. Reynolds, Albany; J. C. Nixon, St. Louis; C. H. Owens, New Orleans; John A. Sweeney, New York; F. E.
Hughes, Dallas; C. W. Italian, St. Louis; Fred Paul Grasse, Abilene; J. W. Pratt, city; John T. Ginocchio, city; N. D. Bratt, city; Eugene Thames, Chicago; W. P.
Jones, Atlanta; J. M. Buchanan, Whitesboro; L. Dryfoos, Sherman; Miss New-comb, Henrietta; O. H. Nelson, Cleburne; S. P. Mendy, Dallas; J. B. Runsey, Longview; E. B. Smith, city; S. B. Getts, city; F. M.
Gilbough, city; W. J. Holloway, Gordon; S. S. Field and wife, Dallas; C. F. Stevens, New York; L. W. McKee, Ky.; Wm. Bowen, Austin; Hugo Sacks, Galveston; C. A. Harrison, St. Louis; Sam Lazarus, Sherman; C. J. Olds, Kansas City; J. B. Burnside, city; J. J. Walker, Lancaster, Ky.; Louis Mock, Danville, Ky.; R. T. Randall, Waterford, Cal.; F. W. Flint, New York; W. D. Mc-Nams, Chicago; Sam Sanders, Cleburne; Mrs. C. Perkins, Comanche; E. H. Brittan, Philadelphia.

Mr. Howard S. Patrick of Kansas City, representing Trumbull, Reynolds & Allen, seceded, was in the city yesterday, investigating the alleged crooked transaction of one H. W. Bally, a representative of his firm, an account of which appeared in THE GAZETTE of the 8th inst. Mr.
Patrick said that he has failed to unearth any further bad features of the matter.
He left for Denison last night.

A Cattleman Killed.
Special to the Gazette.
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 10.—Brady Pollock, a wealthy cattleman living seven miles from Lake Valley, was butchered to-day by the Apaches. This is authentic.
The Indians are supposed to be making their way to the Florida mountain.

DENISON.
Special to the Gazette.
DENISON, TEX., Sept. 10.—Mrs. An-tonette Mosely, wife of a prominent lawyer of this city, died this morning of typhoid fever. She was a daughter of B.
W. Jackson of Mexico, to which place her remains were taken for interment.
Several attempts were made this morning to burn an occupied house on Chesnut street, but without success. No clue to the villains.

Every first-class dealer sells Opera Puff cigarettes. Avoid injurious imitations.
George B. Loving will continue the job printing business, and solicits your patronage.
GAZETTE JOB PRINTING HOUSE,
Second street, near Houston.
Ladies' canopy phonos at Keller's repository.
Southsiders buy of Walters because he keeps the choicest meats.

A GHASTLY SUBJECT?

But Not Permanently Elastic Under Unusual Atmospheric Conditions—Flatulence vs. Gas.

S. F. Jones and His Experience With the Luminous Article in Room 23 of Ginocchio's Hotel.

Mr. S. F. Jones, at present a resident of Austin, came to the Fort this week on a pleasure trip. The exact date of Mr.
Jones' advent to the capital city is not known, but it is a settled fact that he now numbers among her progressive and wide-awake people. As above stated, Mr. Jones paid a visit to the great metropolis of Texas. The time of his arrival was Sunday night, and the place he decided to rest his weary limbs for the night was at Ginocchio's hotel. Mr.
Jones of course placed his autograph upon the pages of the register and being a very prepossessing looking individual, the clerk, Mr. A. Woodward, assigned him to the sky parlor, one of the most elegantly furnished rooms in the house. Mr.
Jones wished to know the number of his temporary sanctum. "Room No. 23," one of the choicest in the house," replied the clerk. "Have you an elevator?"
"Oh, yes; I will have you elevated when you are ready to retire," smilingly jested bashful Al.

"All right," said Mr. Jones, "as soon as I go up town and see your great city and take in your principal sights I will return and then go to bed. Did you not say my room was No. 23? Be sure not to give it to any one else."

Immediately Mr. Jones was off for the street-car, which he boarded for the more thickly populated part of the Fort. About 2 o'clock in the morning he returned to the hotel and was escorted to his room.
The gas was turned on and a match applied, which showed off the room much to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After sitting quietly for some time in his chair, meditating upon the ups and downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced preparing himself to receive the tender embraces of Morpheus. The only impediment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his room? He planned and planned for relief. Finally he decided to retire leaving the light burning. This would not answer. After rolling from one side of the bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several minutes, deliberating upon a line of action. He had already made two unsuccessful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced pre-
paring himself to receive the tender em-
braces of Morpheus. The only imped-
iment that stared Mr. Jones directly in the
face, and one which promised to cause
him much annoyance was, how could he
sleep with such a brilliant light in his
room? He planned and planned for re-
lief. Finally he decided to retire leaving
the light burning. This would not an-
swer. After rolling from one side of the
bed to another for about ten minutes he
arose and walked the room for several
minutes, deliberating upon a line of ac-
tion. He had already made two unsuccess-
ful attempts to blow the room much
to the great delight of Mr. Jones. After
sitting quietly for some time in his
chair, meditating upon the ups and
downs of Fort Worth by gaslight, Mr.
Jones, tired and weary, commenced preparing himself to receive the tender